Women's Giving Circle hopes to grow and expand its reach

BY BOB DEMAREE

With the hope of what women can do through combining their financial strength, the Women's Giving Circle of Jefferson County (WGCJC) was founded in 2012.

Jane Williams joined the organization in the first year because she was "always very interested in services for women and children. I thought the concept was very unique, and 10 years ago that was a particularly busy time in my life, and I wanted to help but I didn't have a lot of time to commit. So, this was perfect for me, and I've always stayed interested."

Over the years Williams has become even more devoted to WGC, particularly as she's had more time to get more deeply involved. "I got involved with actually awarding the grants and going to the organizations, and it was mind-blowing to see the programs that I had no idea about, and going on site visits, and seeing what they're doing for women and children in county, and that was the most gratifying thing. So, now I am passionate about it."

Halloween Festival

A group of children leans in for a close look, and perhaps a touch, at Saturday's Halloween Festival petting zoo provided by Honey Hill Farm. With a petting zoo, a train, a roller skating rink and dozens of games and candy giveaways plus a costume contest, the event packed Bicentennial Park.

With a petting zoo, a train, a roller skating rink and dozens of games and candy giveaways, the event packed Bicentennial Park for a second consecutive year.

Saturation patrol produces 5 felony arrests

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Local law enforcement agencies joined efforts on Saturday to conduct an intensive four-hour detail targeting drug interdiction and alcohol and traffic concerns in Madison and Jefferson County.

Madison Police Department and the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department joined forces for a saturation patrol detail. The goal of the four-hour detail was drug interdiction at the street level, to seek out impaired drivers and enforce general traffic concerns. The results of the detail were 35 traffic stops, 14 written warnings, 18 verbal warnings, three citations and five felony arrests. The five felony arrests resulted in the seizure of methamphetamine, marijuana, THC vapes, drug paraphernalia, U.S. currency and the recovery of a stolen vehicle.

"Public safety is our top priority and is a collaborative effort with law enforcement, the prosecutor's office and our court system," said Madison Mayor Bob Courtney. "Our investment in training, recruitment and doubling investigative resources is paying dividends."

The Madison Police and Jefferson County Sheriff's Department appreciates the efforts of Central Dispatch during this operation.

Rainfall still not enough to rescind burn ban

BY BOB DEMAREE

Even with a steady rainfall on Sunday, Jefferson County burn ban will remain in effect for the foreseeable future.

Jefferson County Emergency Management Agency director Troy Morgan said Monday morning conditions "are moving in the right direction" but he wants to hold off on deciding on any change in the status until the United States Department of Agriculture releases this week's drought monitor, which is expected Wednesday. Once this week's drought monitor is released, Morgan said county fire chiefs will also be consulted before a decision is made on whether to lift the burn ban.

Sunday's recorded rainfall was 0.68 of an inch with another .04 on Monday morning. However, Morgan noted it was running off the top of the ground rather than soaking into the vegetation and soil.

"The ground was too hard to absorb," Morgan said, noting he's hopeful there will be more rain later in the week that could further improve conditions.

Last week, the drought monitor showed moderate drought conditions in Jefferson and Switzerland counties in Indiana, and Carroll and Trimble counties in Kentucky. Firefighters battled several field fires and fires in wooded areas.

Flint names Pickel as chief deputy if elected

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Republican Jefferson County Sheriff's candidate Ben Flint has named his choice for Chief Deputy if he is elected in this year's general election.

Laura Pickel

Flint, who facing Democrat Tim Davis in the Sheriff's race, named Laura Pickel as the officer who will serve as his lead deputy.

"This decision is one that I am very proud of," Flint said. "Laura is extremely qualified to be the first woman appointed to this role. She brings a fresh perspective while still knowing the spirit of Jefferson County."

Pickel, a 2004 Madison Consolidated High School graduate, has previously worked for the San Diego Police Department, where she served as a patrol officer, juvenile services officer, juvenile services detective, riot term member, terrorism liaison officer and sergeant. While working in San Diego, Pickel received four commanding officer citations, numerous supervisor commendations and was named Officer of the Shift in 2012 and 2016. In January 2020, Pickel was hired by the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office. During her time as a local law officer, Pickel has served as a patrol deputy and K9 handler and received several letters of commendation.

The election is on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Williams is now chair of the Women's Giving Circle (WGC), which is under auspices of the Community Foundation of Madison and Jefferson County.

The organization was started through the leadership of the late Bonnie Hare with an initial group of 12 local philanthropic women of all ages and backgrounds.

By combining their financial strength, the women collectively work to make a positive impact for women and children throughout Jefferson County. Membership consists of an annual tax deductible contribution of $100. Each membership has 75% placed in a pass-through field of interest fund while the remaining 25% is invested in the Women's Giving Circle Endowment.

"That $100, I tell everybody it is such a powerful $100," said Williams, "because it goes to local non-profits that serve women and children." And in 10 years, she said that "amount of money by multiple women has resulted in $185,000 going to these organizations in our county."

Junior memberships are also available for females ages 18 and under for $50, and they are a $25/$25 split.

WGC makes grants annually to organizations that have the greatest potential to help women and children of Jefferson County that she said typically amounts to an overall total of approximately $20,000.

A fall open house is planned for Thursday, Nov. 10, from 6-8 p.m. at the Thomas Family Winery, 208 East Second Street, Madison. For planning purposes, RSVP to Julie Wells at 812-274-0945 or julie@cfmjc.org

Williams said there are currently 183 WGC members but the goal for this year is to expand to 250. Before COVID-19, the organization had 240 members but the pandemic caused a decline in membership. "We are ready to surge back. We're hoping current members bring friends or people who haven't been along for a few years that it sparks their interest again."

"There's a lot of need right now," said Williams, and with greater membership WGC will have more resources available to help more people. "So many of the grants that we give, maybe the monetary amount is now huge but to these non-profits, it's critical, and if we didn't grant the money, they wouldn't be able to have the program."

Grants, which will be awarded to organizations on April 4, are focused on four fields of interests with a specific purpose of benefiting women and/or children — education, economic empowerment, physical and mental health, and violence and crime prevention.

Women can join the organization at the Nov. 10 event, online through the WGC page on the Community Foundation website or at the Community Foundation office.

from complete," State Police Superintendent Doug Carter said, encouraging the community to come forward with more information. He told a news conference that if any other people "had any involvement in these murders in any way, that person or persons will be held accountable."

Carroll County Prosecutor Nicholas McLeland described Allen's arrest as "a step in the right direction."

"It's concerning that he's a local guy," McLeland said.

The evidence against Allen has been temporarily sealed because the investigation is still ongoing and authorities do not want to jeopardize the "integrity" of their investigation, they said.

"While I know you were all expecting final details today concerning this arrest, today is not that day," Carter said.

The bodies of Libby and Abby were found in a rugged area near a hiking trail on Feb. 14, 2017, one day after they vanished while hiking during a day off school in Delphi, a community known for its hiking trails.

A relative of one of the teens dropped them off at a hiking trail near the Monon High Bridge just outside their hometown of Delphi, about 60 miles (97 kilometers) northwest of Indianapolis. They were reported missing on the evening of Feb. 13, 2017, after failing to appear at a predetermined meeting place.

Their deaths were ruled a double-homicide, but more than five years after the killings police have not disclosed how the girls died or described what evidence they had in the case. A judge found probable cause to arrest Allen, who was ordered held without bond after entering a not-guilty plea at his initial hearing on Friday, authorities said.

"We haven't closed the door on the investigation," McLeland said when asked if authorities were investigating others. "We're not presuming anything at this point."

Within days of the killings, investigators released two grainy photos of a suspect walking on the abandoned railroad bridge the girls had visited, and an audio recording of a man believed to be the suspect saying "down the hill."

Authorities have since released two sketches of the suspected killer, including one in April 2019 based on video from Libby's cellphone that's believed to be more accurate than a sketch released in July 2017.

Police also released video in April 2019 which shows the man suspected of killing the teens walking on the abandoned railroad bridge the girls had visited.

The brief video, photos and audio of the suspect came from Libby's cellphone. Authorities have hailed her as a hero for recording potentially crucial evidence before she was killed.

In December 2021, state police announced they were seeking information from people who had contact with someone who used a fictitious online profile to communicate with young girls.

State Police said at that time that investigators probing their deaths had uncovered a fictitious online profile named "anthony_shots" that was used from 2016 to 2017 on Snapchat, Instagram and other social media platforms.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 1, the 305th day of 2022. There are 60 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 1, 1991, Clarence Thomas took his place as the newest justice on the Supreme Court.

On this date:

In 1478, the Spanish Inquisition was established.

In 1512, Michelangelo's just-completed paintings on the ceiling of the Vatican's Sistine Chapel were publicly unveiled by the artist's patron, Pope Julius II.

In 1604, William Shakespeare's tragedy "Othello" was first presented at Whitehall Palace in London.

In 1765, the Stamp Act, passed by the British Parliament, went into effect, prompting stiff resistance from American colonists.

In 1861, during the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln named Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan General-in-Chief of the Union armies, succeeding Lt. Gen. Winfield Scott.

In 1870, the United States Weather Bureau made its first meteorological observations.

In 1936, in a speech in Milan, Italy, Benito Mussolini described the alliance between his country and Nazi Germany as an "axis" running between Rome and Berlin.

In 1950, two Puerto Rican nationalists tried to force their way into Blair House in Washington, D.C., in a failed attempt to assassinate President Harry S. Truman. (One of the pair was killed, along with a White House police officer.)

In 1952, the United States exploded the first hydrogen bomb, code-named "Ivy Mike," at Enewetak Atoll in the Marshall Islands.

In 1989, East Germany reopened its border with Czechoslovakia, prompting tens of thousands of refugees to flee to the West.

In 1995, Bosnia peace talks opened in Dayton, Ohio, with the leaders of Bosnia, Serbia and Croatia present.

In 2007, less than a week after workers ratified a new contract, Chrysler announced 12,000 job cuts, or about 15 percent of its work force.

Ten years ago: Israel, lifting a nearly 25-year veil of secrecy, acknowledged it had killed Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's deputy in a 1988 raid in Tunisia. (Khalil al-Wazir, who was better known by his nom de guerre Abu Jihad, founded Fatah, the dominant faction in the Palestine Liberation Organization.)

Five years ago: Federal prosecutors brought terrorism charges against the man accused in the Manhattan truck rampage a day earlier that left eight people dead; prosecutors said Sayfullo Saipov had asked to display the Islamic State group's flag in the hospital room where he was recovering from police gunfire. President Donald Trump tweeted that the suspect in the truck attack should get the death penalty. Prompting celebrations in a city still recovering from Hurricane Harvey, the Houston Astros won their first World Series championship, beating the Dodgers 5-1 in Game 7 in Los Angeles.

One year ago: The global death toll from COVID-19 topped 5 million, as tallied by Johns Hopkins University. About 9,000 New York City municipal workers were put on unpaid leave for refusing to comply with a new COVID-19 vaccine mandate, and thousands of city firefighters called out sick in an apparent protest over the requirement. Real estate scion Robert Durst was indicted on a murder charge in the disappearance of his first wife nearly four decades earlier; he was already serving a life sentence for killing a confidante who helped cover up that slaying. (Durst died in January 2022.) At a U.N. summit in Scotland, President Joe Biden apologized for former President Donald Trump's decision to leave the Paris climate change agreement, and for the role that the U.S. and other wealthy countries played in contributing to climate change.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 2, the 306th day of 2022. There are 59 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Nov. 2, 1783, General George Washington issued his Farewell Address to the Army near Princeton, New Jersey.

On this date:

In 1861, during the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln relieved Maj. Gen. John C. Fremont of his command of the Army's Department of the West based in St. Louis, following Fremont's unauthorized efforts to emancipate slaves in Missouri.

In 1917, British Foreign Secretary Arthur Balfour issued a declaration expressing support for a "national home" for the Jews in Palestine.

In 1920, white mobs rampaged through the Florida citrus town of Ocoee, setting fire to Black-owned homes and businesses, after a Black man, Mose Norman, showed up at the polls to vote on Election Day; some historians estimate as many as 60 people were killed.

In 1950, playwright George Bernard Shaw, 94, died in Ayot St. Lawrence, Hertfordshire, England.

In 1976, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter became the first candidate from the Deep South since the Civil War to be elected president as he defeated incumbent Gerald R. Ford.

In 1994, a jury in Pensacola, Florida, convicted Paul Hill of murder for the shotgun slayings of an abortion provider and his escort; Hill was executed in September 2003.

In 2000, American astronaut Bill Shepherd and two Russian cosmonauts, Yuri Gidzenko and Sergei Krikalev, became the first residents of the international space station.

In 2003, in Iraq, insurgents shot down a Chinook helicopter carrying dozens of U.S. soldiers, killing 16.

In 2004, President George W. Bush was elected to a second term as Republicans strengthened their grip on Congress.

In 2007, British college student Meredith Kercher, 21, was found slain in her bedroom in Perugia, Italy; her roommate, American Amanda Knox and Knox's Italian boyfriend, Raffaele Sollecito, were convicted of killing Kercher, but both were later exonerated. (Rudy Guede, a petty criminal who was convicted separately in the case, was released from prison in November 2021 after serving most of a 16-year sentence.)

In 2016, ending a championship drought that had lasted since 1908, the Chicago Cubs won the World Series, defeating the Cleveland Indians 8-7 in extra innings.

In 2020, in the closing hours of the presidential campaign, President Donald Trump charged across the nation delivering an incendiary but false allegation that the election was rigged, while Democrat Joe Biden pushed to claim states that were once seen as safely Republican.

Ten years ago: Four days before Election Day, President Barack Obama accused Mitt Romney of scaring voters with lies, while the Republican challenger warned grimly of political paralysis and another recession if Obama reclaimed the White House. The New York City Marathon was canceled when Mayor Michael Bloomberg reversed himself and yielded to mounting criticism that it was no time to be running a race in the wake of Superstorm Sandy.

Five years ago: President Donald Trump tapped Jerome Powell to replace Janet Yellen as Federal Reserve chair at the end of her term in February. Authorities in Los Angeles and New York said they had opened new investigations prompted by sexual misconduct allegations against Harvey Weinstein. Twitter reported that a customer support worker who was on his or her last day on the job had deactivated President Donald Trump's Twitter account for a few minutes, resulting in an error message that the user "does not exist."

One year ago: Democratic Gov. Phil Murphy of New Jersey narrowly won reelection in his reliably blue state while a Republican political newcomer, Glenn Youngkin, upset Democrat Terry McAuliffe in the Virginia governor's race. Democratic former police captain Eric Adams won New York's mayoral race. Minneapolis voters defeated a ballot initiative that would have replaced the city's police department with a reimagined public safety unit in the city where George Floyd died under an officer's knee. World leaders promised to protect Earth's forests, cut methane emissions and help South Africa wean itself off coal at the U.N. climate summit in Glasgow, Scotland. The Biden administration launched a wide-ranging plan to reduce methane emissions, targeting a potent greenhouse gas that contributes significantly to global warming. The Atlanta Braves won their first World Series championship since 1995, hammering the Houston Astros 7-0 in Game 6.

Today's Birthdays: Political commentator Patrick Buchanan is 84. Actor Stefanie Powers is 80. Country-rock singer-songwriter J.D. Souther is 77. Actor Kate Linder is 75. Rock musician Carter Beauford (The Dave Matthews Band) is 64. Actor Peter Mullan is 63. Singer-songwriter k.d. lang is 61.

Crutchfield's calling now in 30th year at First Baptist

BY BOB DEMAREE

Randy Crutchfield came to Madison in 1992 to serve as youth pastor at First Baptist Church, not really having plans to necessarily stay all that long but this fall he's celebrating 30 years in the community.

Randy Crutchfield

When he was hired by the church in November of 1992, Crutchfield said, "I promised I would stay here at least year" but after that year he just stayed and never left.

"I really loved the people so much," said Crutchfield, who after 26 years as the church's associate pastor became the senior pastor four years ago in September of 2018.

Even though he's pastor of the church, Crutchfield's work has also extended into the community — from being instrumental in organizing the Ulster Project in Madison to being a part of his church's efforts in re-inventing Eggleston Elementary School into a community center.

In 1998, Crutchfield along with Rick Draper of Christ Episcopal Church organized the Ulster Project of Madison, which is committed to promoting peace and equality in Northern Ireland between Catholics and Protestants, by instilling a sense of inclusion, respect and tolerance. The project brings teenagers — both Catholic and Protestant — to the United States, where a group of Northern Irish and American teens meet for daily activities.

Crutchfield said his inspiration towards initiating the Ulster Project in Madison came on Oct. 3, 1997 on a bus ride to Washington D.C. when he was reading a magazine article about violence in Northern Ireland. "I got this overwhelming conviction that I needed to be involved in that," so when he returned home from the trip, he began working towards creating an Ulster Project chapter in Madison, and it became a successful annual effort until the COVID-19 pandemic put a halt to it. "Thousands and thousands of kids have gone through all the different cities in the nation, so I think it has been very helpful with the peace in Northern Ireland."

In 2013, First Baptist purchased the former Eggleston Elementary building, and now the building is fully repurposed and utilized. Among the organizations that call the building home are La Casa Amiga to provide services to local Hispanics, counseling services, 12-step programs and more.

Initially, the idea of the church purchasing the Eggleston building was as a gathering space for its youth group, but Crutchfield said once they got serious about owning the building, they wanted it to be much more than that. "For the church, they saw it not only as an opportunity for First Baptist but other ministries in the community to have space to serve the community," Crutchfield said.

Crutchfield grew up in Greene County near the small town of Owensburg where he attended Owensburg Baptist Church and met his wife, Lisa. While attending Purdue University pursuing an electrical engineering degree, Crutchfield felt the call to ministry, and after graduation went on to Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville.

"As soon I said 'Yes' to God to go into ministry then I had fulfilled that calling God had given to me," he said.

As for his 30 years in Madison, Crutchfield said "it's been awesome. I've enjoyed working with our church family here and serving our community."

And he's excited to continue that work.

A special celebration of Crutchfield's 30 years was held in October with Steve Mechem, former senior pastor at First Baptist Madison (1986-2003), providing the message during the worship service.

Alderman, the first runner in Shawe school history to qualify for the state finals twice, crossed the line in 20:01.9, a full minute slower than her school-record performance at the semistate a week earlier. She was part of a pack of seven runners that finished within a second of each other.

Senior Lily Cridge of Bishop Chatard High School won the state championship with a time of 17:14.6. Delta junior Nicki Southerland was second in 17:17.5. Noblesville won the team championship with a score of 122 while Columbus North was second with 153 points.

Alderman graduates Shawe as the most accomplished runner in school history. Along with the school record, she also won two IHSAA Sectional championships and was the Class 1A State Runner of the Year twice. She has also been the Madison Courier Girls Cross Country Runner of the Year three times.

Heinicke rallies Washington past Colts 17-16

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Terry McLaurin punctuated his homecoming with a clutch play in a Washington win.

Taylor Heinicke made sure of it.

McLaurin's spectacular 33-yard catch with 26 seconds left set up Heinicke's 1-yard TD plunge, lifting the Commanders to a 17-16 win over the Indianapolis Colts on Sunday.

"Terry's that dude. He's got that dog in him," Heinicke said. "People want to fight for him. The guy is a treasure. We're glad he's on our team."

That certainly has been the case the past two weeks, when McLaurin and Heinicke appeared to be in perfect sync. On Sunday, they helped the Commanders (4-4) score twice in the final five minutes to overcome a nine-point deficit in Washington's third straight win.

Heinicke went 23 of 31 for 279 yards, one touchdown and one interception, converting a crucial fourth-and-1 from his 20-yard line on the final drive.

McLaurin caught six passes for 113 yards in his first pro contest at Lucas Oil Stadium — the same venue where he attended games with his father and celebrated three high school state championships and two Big Ten titles.

With nearly six dozen friends and family in attendance, McLaurin wrestled the ball away from 2019 NFL Defensive Player of the Year Stephon Gilmore on his big catch near the goal line. Heinicke scored on the next play.

"A lot of my love for football started here, a lot of my family and friends were here," McLaurin said. "I had a lot of confidence I was going to come down with that ball (against Gilmore)."

For the Colts (3-4-1), it was more of the same despite making a quarterback change. Sam Ehlinger took over from injured and benched veteran Matt Ryan, who was inactive for the game.

Ehlinger was solid, going 17 of 23 for 201 yards. But he also was sacked twice, lost a fumble that cost Indy points and came up just short on a third-down scramble with 3:38 remaining. Indy challenged the ruling and lost before opting to punt, which gave Washington one more chance.

"I thought I had it, I thought I had it judging by the reaction of my teammates and then obviously my knee was down," Ehlinger said. "You never know you're ready until you're put in that situation. I know now it wasn't good enough."

Ehlinger did, however, set up Chase McLaughlin for three field goals to give Indy a 9-7 lead. Following a Shaquille Leonard interception, the Colts made it 16-7 on Nyheim Hines' 6-yard TD run with 11:12 to go.

But Washington answered with a 28-yard field goal and got the stop it needed before Heinicke and McLaurin combined for the final, dramatic scene — fulfilling the wishes of one of McLaurin's friends who maneuvered his way close enough for a midgame conversation.

"Don't worry about it," McLaurin said was the response when he asked his buddy how he made it there. "Just go make the play to win the game."

RINGING IT IN

Hall of Famers Peyton Manning, Marvin Harrison, Edgerrin James and Bill Polian attended the festivities, and former Colts center Jeff Saturday donned Glenn's No. 78 jersey before the game.

"I'm so grateful for this opportunity and I couldn't do it without a village," Glenn said. "I am so grateful to have played all my 10 years in Indianapolis."

Mathurin helps Pacers top Nets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Rookie Bennedict Mathurin scored a career-high 32 points, Tyrese Haliburton added 26 and the Indiana Pacers beat the Brooklyn Nets 125-116 on Saturday night.

Mathurin, who had 27 points at Detroit on Oct. 22, made a career-best six of Indiana's franchise-record 23 3-pointers

Indiana's previous franchise record for 3s in a regular season game was 21 at home against Milwaukee on May 13, 2021.

"Every time I step on the court, confidence is always going to be the same (whether) my shots are going in or not going in," Mathurin said. "Today I felt I could have had a bigger impact coming off the bench and I was having a little juice, bringing a little juice to the game."

Isaiah Jackson had a double-double with 18 points and 10 rebounds and Buddy Hield chipped in 17 for the Pacers.

Indiana, winners of two straight, improved to 3-4.

"What these guys did in Washington last night, national tv game against a team that was 3-1, and then tonight against a team like Brooklyn that is loaded with superstars, we're starting to understand how hard we have to play all the time," Pacers coach Rick Carlisle said.

Kyrie Irving scored 35 points on 13 for 22 shooting from the field for the struggling Nets, who fell to 1-5. Brooklyn's defense has allowed 124.5 points per game during its current four-game skid.

"We're in constant communication all the time, if it's a scheduled meeting or not," Durant said. "I think we all talk about what we need to do as a team every day. So, regardless if it's after a loss or it's looked at as a meeting, but we (are) always in constant dialogue about what we need to do as a group."

Irving has come under fire after he appeared to show support to an antisemitic film two days ago. He said before the game that he believes in all religions. Brooklyn trailed 92-90 to start the four quarter before for Pacers went on a 13-5 run to take a 105-95 advantage with 8:34 left on Jackson's layup.

Kevin Durant then scored four straight points to cut the deficit 108-101 but reserve guard Chris Duarte's 3-pointer started a 6-0 run that extended the lead 114-101 with 5:39 left.

Bell wins, Chastain rides the wall to earn title race spots

BY HANK KURZ JR.
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ross Chastain's aggressive style hasn't made a lot of friends in NASCAR's top series. Now, he'll be contending for a championship because of that approach.

Chastain pinned his Chevrolet against the outside wall of the 0.526-mile Martinsville Speedway and was sailing at some 70 mph faster than the rest of the field, careening from 10th place to fifth on the final lap to give Trackhouse Racing its first championship appearance.

Christopher Bell won his way into NASCAR's championship race while Chastain used a move more suited for a video game to also advance in Sunday's thrilling regular-season finale.

Chastain credited his video game playing for the dramatic move on the final lap.

"Oh, played a lot of NASCAR 2005 on the GameCube with (younger brother) Chad growing up," he said. "You can get away with it. I never knew if it would actually work.

"I mean, I did that when I was eight years old. I grabbed fifth gear, asked off of two on the last lap if we needed it, and we did. I couldn't tell who was leading. I made the choice, grabbed fifth gear down the back. Full committed. Basically let go of the wheel, hoping I didn't catch the turn four access gate or something crazy. But I was willing to do it."

Bell had to win to advance to the final four next week at Phoenix Raceway and he pulled it off to give Joe Gibbs Racing and Toyota one spot in the finale. Bell also won on the Charlotte Motor Speedway road course in the final race of the second round of the playoffs, so has now twice advanced with victories.

Stacy Revere

Christopher Bell celebrates in victory lane after winning the NASCAR Cup Series Xfinity 500 at Martinsville Speedway on Sunday in Martinsville, Virginia.

But this win was different.

"Man, I say it all the time, but the driver is just a small piece of the puzzle for these races," Bell said. "The reason why this car won today is because it was the best car on the racetrack. Adam Stevens, Tyler William, this entire 20 group, they just never give up. When our back is against the wall, looks like it's over, they show up and give me the fastest car out here.

"I don't know, man. Words can't describe this feeling."

The final four drivers in the Cup Series winner-take-all finale are Bell, Joey Logano, Chase Elliott and Chastain, who bumped foe Denny Hamlin from the championship with his spectacular last-lap scramble.

Hamlin, while disappointed, was impressed.

"Great move. Brilliant. Certainly a great move," he said of Chastain's tactic. "When you have no other choice, it certainly is easy to do that. But well executed," he said.

Bell passed Chase Briscoe, who also needed to win to advance to the championship, with five laps to go to earn the automatic berth into the championship race. It was Bell who was caught in Bubba Wallace's retaliation of Kyle Larson at Las Vegas and Bell being collected in that crash dropped him to last of the eight drivers.

He knew since then it would take a victory for Bell to race for his first Cup title, and he pulled it off on NASCAR's oldest track.

Browns' Garrett hoping to sack Burrow, Bengals on Halloween

BY TOM WITHERS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CLEVELAND — After being the Grim Reaper — complete with scythe and cape bearing names of quarterbacks he's sacked — a year ago on Halloween, Myles Garrett might not wear a costume to Monday night's matchup against Cincinnati.

"I was just planning to go in and do my job and dress up as a football player," Garrett said.

That's scary enough for Bengals quarterback Joe Burrow.

Garrett, still playing at an elite level despite being slowed by injuries sustained in a car crash last month, is trying to keep his focus on saving a season that has gone from troubling to terrifying for the Browns (2-5), who have lost four straight entering their game against the Bengals (4-3).

Another loss, particularly in the AFC North, would further damage the Browns' already dinged-up postseason hopes.

But following a solid performance last week in Baltimore by a Cleveland defense that has had its share of issues in 2022, Garrett feels confident.

"I like our chances," he said. "Our defense has had good games against the Bengals and Burrow and I think we know what it takes to really make him uncomfortable and get after him. And although he's talented — love his family, but we've got to put him in the dirt."

The Bengals won't have star receiver Ja'Marr Chase, Burrow's top target and deep threat, because of a nagging hip injury.

On Saturday, Bengals coach Zac Taylor said Chase, who has 47 catches and six touchdowns, will not go on injured reserve, pointing to the team expecting him back in less than a month.

Even without Chase, Burrow has plenty of playmakers in receivers Tee Higgins and Tyler Boyd and running back Joe Mixon to frighten the Browns.

Though Cincinnati's attack won't look the same, Garrett doesn't expect Burrow to do anything differently.

"He'll still playing the same and still has a variety of skill guys he can get the ball to in a variety of ways," Garrett said of Burrow, who is 0-3 as a starter against Cleveland. "I know he'll definitely miss him (Chase) and his presence in this offense.

"But he's still able to open and throw many of the same routes and the same kind of concepts to those guys because there are just a lot of talented receivers that they have."

Garrett has six sacks this season, but he hasn't been as dominant since injuring his shoulder and biceps when he veered off a road near his home and flipped his Porsche following practice on Sept. 26.

Garrett's still healing and admitted he probably should have taken more time off — he missed just one game — following the accident caused by him speeding. He's not at his best, but that doesn't mean he can't be effective.

"I feel like I'm going to make a way out of no way," he said. "If I'm a 10, and now I'm an eight, I'm eight amongst all these great pass rushers around the league. So my 80% is a little bit different from everyone else's.

"There's some situations where I get in when I'm pass rushing or I'm in a run block where I feel kind of in a compromised position, but those have been happening fewer and fewer as those weeks have gone by, days have gone by."

Phillies to host Houston with World Series tied

BY BEN WALKER
AP BASEBALL WRITER

PHILADELPHIA — Fresh from singing another rollicking chorus of "Fly, Eagles fly," fans streamed out of Lincoln Financial Field on Sunday and quickly turned their attention from the NFL's only unbeaten club to another Philly team, another sport and another building just a few hundred yards away.

"Let's go, Phillies!" some chanted in the concourse. "Let's go, Harper!" other hollered as they headed to the exits.

Think that was loud? Just wait till the World Series returns to Philadelphia for the first time since 2009. On Halloween night, too, with the Phillie Phanatic sure to be in rare form.

Already frenzied during the NL playoffs, Citizens Bank Park figures to be positively pulsating for Game 3 on Monday night — providing the rain that's in the forecast doesn't dampen things.

Noah Syndergaard is set to start for the Phillies against Lance McCullers Jr. and the Houston Astros with the Series tied at one game each.

"Philly fans are the best, they know the game. They just have a way of showing displeasure that sometimes is hard for players to understand," Mike Schmidt, the greatest Phillie of them all, said in an email to The Associated Press on Sunday.

That's certainly one way of putting it, coming from a three-time NL MVP and first-ballot Hall of Famer who heard boos often enough at Veterans Stadium.

Schmidt is widely expected to be at the ballpark for the pregame festivities when the Series resumes after a travel day. And he's certain to draw a standing ovation and hear loud cheers — indeed, the City of Brotherly Love is in love with all of its Phillies these days.

McCullers, in fact, say he's eager to hear and see the scene.

"I have not been shy as far as just being open to pitching on the road. I think it's really cool to pitch on the road in the postseason. I think it's when you get to experience the most raw and real atmospheres in all the game," he said.

Bryce Harper, Kyle Schwarber and the Phillies are all too eager to show the curveballing McCullers first-hand how quickly things can spin out of control in Philadelphia's pinball machine.

Sibling assault forces mother into a corner

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: There was a physical altercation between my 32-year-old son and 26-year-old daughter one evening, when both were very drunk.

They were in the room alone, so no one knows exactly what happened, except that my son ended up pushing my daughter to the floor and throttling her. My daughter, who was freaked out and nearly hysterical, was brought to my house. I could easily see the marks around her neck.

She no longer feels safe around her brother. On the advice of her counselor, my daughter filed charges. After talking with my son, the police forwarded the charges to the prosecutor's office.

Apparently, my son is insisting that my daughter bit him and he was protecting himself. My daughter doesn't remember.

Throughout all of his ups and downs, I have always been on my son's side, but now I feel I need to distance myself from him, especially because my daughter and her other brother refuse to be around him.

This would mean him forgoing attending Thanksgiving and Christmas, and probably cause a permanent rift with him, which makes my heart sick.

I haven't spoken to my son since this happened two weeks ago. What should I do? — Sick at Heart Mom

Dear Sick at Heart: Your son is facing a credible accusation of a serious assault toward his sister.

You should attend to your daughter's needs and assist her as she goes through the legal process. If her drinking is causing her to black out, you should encourage her to confront her alcohol use. And yes, your son should face prosecution.

Naturally, you are very upset, angry and worried. But your son is accused of a very serious act of violence, and though your instinct is to keep your distance, you should not abandon him. In my view, his best chance at rehabilitation might be through a relationship with you.

You should contact him. Express your heartbreak and shock regarding his behavior.

Uncle is hurt by toddler's refusal to hug

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Amy: I'm hoping you can shed some light on this subject.

Is there any justification or logical reasoning behind some of these new parenting trends, specifically one that grants basically full autonomy to a toddler to make his or her own decisions?

One that is particularly irksome is letting said toddler choose whether or not they want to hug an immediate family member.

I'm not referring to distant cousins or relatives that are never seen or have only met once. I'm not talking about complete strangers (which of course I would never expect anyone to automatically consent to physical contact), but more like a grandparent or aunt/uncle who are very present in the child's life!

On two recent occasions, I — a very close uncle — was denied a hug. This was the choice of the 3-year-old. This choice was reinforced by the parent.

I'd be lying if I said this wasn't hurtful.

I can't ever recall a time when I didn't want to hug or kiss a close family member growing up, and as I got older, it meant even more as we gained the wisdom of how precious life is.

These days, I'm not much for human interaction/contact given the current social climate, but for the five to 10 seconds a hug lasts with the nephew, all the problems in the world seem to go away.

How will this type of upbringing affect young children as they get older? — J in NY

Dear J: If you had focused on other choices toddlers might make — such as deciding when their own bedtime is, or deciding to pull the cat's tail - I'd be in complete agreement with you.

You've focused on one issue — physical contact — where in my opinion it is not only OK for a toddler to make their own choice, but it is vital that they make their own choice.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Be flexible and go with the flow - that should lead you in a good direction today. You can be wherever you need to be when you are needed. Your hard work and persistence should pay off in both money and satisfaction.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Put your favorite toys away until it is time to play. You may feel pressured to perform at top speed on a project or on the job. A companion might be flirtatious or prefer to socialize when there is work to do.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You are likely more outgoing than usual. By participating in group gatherings, you may make some interesting discoveries. A situation that initially confuses you may require some extra thoughtfulness on your part.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — A loved one or partner may show you why "anything worth doing is worth doing well." You should be able to appreciate someone else's passion for persistence and gather some of their momentum for yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — You may want to indulge in wishful thinking, believe a tall tale and never suspect there is something up someone's sleeve. Call someone's bluff and see which card the other person plays before you play your own.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Enjoy the civilizing effect of logical sequences. If one thing is true, then something else most likely must follow. This is not the time to be an outlier from the pack. The more you learn, the better the results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You might be persuaded to put a spin on the facts to make a task or job seem more worthwhile and appealing. Assess the amount of hard, cruel facts someone is ready to hear, then handle them kindly with a trustworthy and deft hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — If your schedule is open, you may want to get out and mingle. This may be a good time to overcome your sense of reserve and call a prospective romantic partner; you might seem more attractive now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — To fit in you need to say what others want to hear. Voice your opinions in a thoughtful manner that is considerate to others in a group setting. You might read too much into someone's casual comments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Set a good example. You might be aware that hard work and determination is needed to reach the top of the mountain. Climbing a mountain may just be how you roll; others could see you as fearless and brave.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Working closely with others or in a team should save time and effort. Your most challenging issue may be handling situations where someone prefers to chill out rather than concentrate on getting a job finished.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Stay perched firmly on the fence. You can counteract misinformation and vague concerns by using your head and the facts at hand. Put off important business negotiations or discussions until next week.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — This might not be the best time to hold a heart-to-heart discussion. No matter how sincere you are, or how charming, a partner or loved one could dissect your words and hold your ideas up to heavy scrutiny.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — To be successful you should be passionate about success. Despite an obsession with a project, you may yearn for a break in routines. Someone new in your circle could brighten your day with some fresh ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — There is a limit to the number of balls you can juggle. An unwise decision to take on some more work might backfire, or you could be distracted by a family feud. Do not disrupt a peaceful relationship with doubts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — No matter which way the wind blows, your internal moral compass will likely find true north. There is no need to rethink your financial arrangements, although some of your friends could suggest some alternatives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Don't change a thing when you have a good thing going. Your most profitable projects may run like clockwork, so say "no" to any urge to tweak them. You may be called upon to deal with people that have rapidly changing moods.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Roll up your sleeves and do the work. Shrewd strategies to get ahead without making any effort usually fail, and you cannot predict the ups and downs of the business world. Consistent efforts pay off most consistently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You may be in the mood for something exciting and be attracted to the latest trends. However, don't chase perfection, it's an illusion that wastes time and drifts forever out of reach. Let good enough be good enough.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — A change of heart might be helpful although it could disrupt your plans. You may meet exciting people who are only with you for a short time. Problems within a relationship might evaporate if you change tactics.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — A new and different approach may yield better results. You may often be more generous and giving than most, so you deserve to receive some rewards, too. Follow through on a promise to keep the peace.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Your poise under fire can make people take notice. Use penetrating insights to tackle creative projects with flair You're probably at your best when you are under pressure or when you are involved in a competitive situation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Tell it like it is. Plain talking can bring the necessary facts out into the open. You might be self-conscious when you are invited to participate in group gatherings, but enough people should accept you just the way you are.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Enjoy soothing and romantic ideas whenever you find them, although reality has a way of peeking through. This isn't the best time to take sides or to sign a binding financial agreement on the spur of the moment.

Hyatt's 2 TDs lead No. 3 Tennessee over No. 19 UK

BY AL LESAR
ASSOCIATED PRESS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — No looking ahead for Jalin Hyatt and No. 3 Tennessee.

The Volunteers were ready for Kentucky.

Hyatt caught five passes for 138 yards and two touchdowns to lead Tennessee to a 44-6 victory over No. 19 Kentucky on Saturday night.

Hyatt broke the school record for touchdown receptions in a season with 14 and set up the Volunteers (8-0, 4-0 Southeastern Conference) for their showdown with No. 1 Georgia next Saturday.

Tennessee is off to its best start since winning the national championship in 1998.

"The first day I took this job, this is what you envision," Tennessee coach Josh Heupel said. "You're in the nuts and bolts and continue to grow. These guys wanted to stay (during the coaching transition)."

The Wildcats (5-3, 2-3) struggled in the latest edition of the border rivalry. Will Levis, projected as one of the top quarterbacks in the upcoming NFL draft, was intercepted three times — including two by Doneiko Slaughter, who moved from safety to cornerback to fill a void.

"(Slaughter) trained at corner," Heupel said. "He did a great job early on. We weren't healthy at that position."

"You have to have the mentality you want to be great," Slaughter said. "I like to be more in the box (at safety), but it'll grow on me."

Kentucky was 1 for 6 on third down in the first half and 2 of 13 for the game. Levis was 16 for 27 for 98 yards.

"(Tennessee) beat us in virtually every area," Kentucky coach Mark Stoops said. "When the game started getting away from us, (Levis is) forcing things. That's the competitor in him."

Wisconsin beats Purdue 35-24

BY TAMIRA MADSEN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MADISON, Wis. — Graham Mertz likes the direction that Wisconsin interim coach Jim Leonhard is taking the Badgers

Mertz threw for two touchdowns, Braelon Allen rushed for 113 yards and a score and Wisconsin defeated Purdue 35-24 on Saturday.

John Torchio had two interceptions, including a 31-yard return for a touchdown for the Badgers (4-4, 2-3 Big Ten Conference), who rebounded from a 34-28 double overtime loss at Michigan State.

The game marked the first home win for Leonhard, who took over for Paul Chryst on Oct. 2.

"I appreciate everything he's done, the energy he's brought; he's done a great job of rallying us and giving us a great plan to go succeed," Mertz said of Leonhard, a former Wisconsin player and Badgers defensive coordinator who has led the team to a 2-1 record.

Allen, who surpassed 100 yards for the fifth time this season, went to the injury tent late in the third quarter with a left arm injury but returned in the fourth.

Mertz went 13 of 21 for 203 yards with two touchdowns and zero interceptions for the Badgers, who have won 16 straight games against Purdue.

Purdue's four-game winning streak was snapped and the Boilermakers (6-2, 3-2 Big Ten) fell one game behind Illinois for the lead in the Big Ten West standings.

Purdue coach Jeff Brohm said he was disappointed in the Boilermakers' effort, especially allowing Wisconsin to take a 21-0 lead after the first quarter.

"We dug ourselves a hole early, and without question, couldn't get out of it," Brohm said. "Our team doesn't have a lot of margin for error, and we can't do that.

"We did fight to the end but it was not a good day for our football team. Wisconsin flat out beat us."

The Badgers scored on their opening drive as Mertz threw a 29-yard touchdown strike to Skyler Bell.

Less than one minute later, Torchio picked off Aidan O'Connell and dashed 31 yards for a touchdown. for the score that increased Wisconsin's lead to 14-0.

Leonhard said that he was pleased with the Badgers' fast start, along with the communication on the sideline and on the field.

"They had confidence in what we were asking them to do, and they finished," Leonhard said. "They made some big plays and got a ton of momentum and energy in the stadium."

Allen's 14-yard touchdown made it 28-3 in the first minute of the second half.

The Boilermakers capitalized on a fumble to get a short field, scoring on an eight-yard pass from O'Connell to Payne Durham. But that was quickly negated with a 54-yard burst by Isaac Guerendo 90 seconds later.

THE TAKE AWAY

Purdue: The Boilermakers defense entered the game ranked 91st nationally with 248.4 yards per game. They gave up 378 yards, including 203 passing yards.

Wisconsin: The Badgers entered with a 79.2% success rate (19 of 24) in red-zone scoring, which ranked second in the league behind Ohio State. They were 1 of 1 on red-zone opportunities against Purdue.

MISSING

Wisconsin was without the team's sack leader and best pass rusher as outside linebacker Nick Herbig did not play.

Leonhard said that Herbig was "banged up" and limited during practice leading up to the Purdue game. Herbig might've seen action, if the game dictated the need.

"We knew we would have him on a very limited pitch count if he was going to be available," Leonhard said. "As the flow of the game happened, we were able to keep him off the field, which I think is the best decision for him."

Brown takes leave of absence

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Larry Brown, the legendary basketball coach who has won NCAA and NBA titles, is taking a leave of absence from his role as the special adviser to Memphis coach Penny Hardaway because of a "minor medical issue."

The school announced the move on Sunday, saying the 82-year-old Brown hopes to return soon.

"We wish him all the best and respect his privacy at this time," the school's statement said. It didn't provide further details.

Brown joined Hardaway's staff in July 2021 a few years after Brown's final head coaching job with Auxilum Torino in Italy's Lega Basket Serie A. Hardaway played for Brown as a member of the New York Knicks.

Brown won 1,098 NBA games and reached the playoffs 18 times over 26 seasons. His NCAA title with the Kansas Jayhawks was among three Final Four appearances his teams made in the 1980s, including one with UCLA. He also won an NBA title with the Detroit Pistons in 2004.

Focused Johnson could be X-factor

BY MICHAEL MAROT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BLOOMINGTON — Xavier Johnson faced the stark reality his basketball days could be over when an April police chase ended in his arrest in a Bloomington parking lot.

Indiana Hoosiers coach Mike Woodson was willing to forgive his starting point guard if he agreed to some conditions. Johnson's car couldn't be on campus, he needed to follow all the team rules and he had to be fully committed to winning games.

Six months later, a revitalized and contrite Johnson finds himself preparing for a fifth college season, this time as the X-factor Indiana needs to increase its Assembly Hall banner collection.

"It just seemed like I hit a big-time wall," Johnson said, explaining what happened that April night. "I thought my career was over, honestly. I'm mad at myself for doing something like that, but I mean I'm glad God gave me a second chance to come back and play what I love to do."

He might not be with No. 13 Indiana had he been playing for Woodson's coach, Bob Knight, who was known as much for being a strict disciplinarian as he was for his volatile public outbursts.

But Woodson, whose coaching career spanned decades in the NBA, understood the challenges Johnson faced last season and took a different tack.

After transferring from Pittsburgh and winning the starting job, Johnson struggled with turnovers, decision-making and, at times, was a non-factor in the scoring column, too. The deaths of his uncle and grandfather took an emotional toll on the Virginia native and in February, Johnson was one of five players suspended by Woodson for "curfew violations."

Johnson appeared to be turning his life around after a strong finishing run to help Indiana end a six-year NCAA Tournament drought, but then came the arrest.

According to the police report, Johnson was clocked going 90 mph in a 40 mph zone, did not stop when the officer turned on his siren and lights, disregarded a stop sign in the apartment complex and then attempted to switch seats with another student in the car. He was charged with resisting law enforcement with a vehicle and reckless driving, a felony.

Woodson's response was blunt.

"He doesn't have a vehicle anymore, I took that away from him," he said. "If that's punishment, it's punishment and I don't mean that in a negative way. We're just trying to do the things necessary to help us win basketball games, and I think he's made a major step in that direction."

Johnson's parents sided with Woodson and now Johnson finds himself thriving in a whole new world, amid expectations of winning a Big Ten title and chasing the school's sixth national title.

And Johnson could play a key role. In the final 10 games last season, he averaged 16.6 points, 6.6 assists and 4 rebounds as the Hoosiers played their way off the bubble and into the tourney.

Teammates say he's been a different player since returning to campus this summer.

"He's definitely taken a big-time step in leadership and just kind of taking that role as being more vocal," third-year guard Trey Galloway said. "I think he's done a great job of being more vocal with the younger guys and kind of bringing them along."

Big Ten preseason player of the year Trayce Jackson-Davis likes the early returns, too.

He came back for his fourth season after his NBA workouts were halted following a positive COVID-19 test. Nobody has more at stake this season than Jackson-Davis, who is trying to become the first Indiana player with 2,000 points and 1,000 rebounds.

And to ensure there are no distractions, he asked Woodson to institute a zero-tolerance drug policy.

"It's really just to hold everyone accountable," Jackson-Davis said. "There's really nothing else to be said about it. I know our guys are going to do the right thing. When the season is going, we're going to be locked in and ready to go because we have really big aspirations."

That includes Johnson, who has never played on a team favored to win a conference crown.

But with the Woodson discussions complete, an August plea agreement ending his court case and a new season set to tip Nov. 7 against Morehead State, Johnson is ready to turn the page and make use of his second chance.

Louisville forces 8 turnovers in rout of No. 10 Wake Forest

BY STEVE BITTENBENDER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Louisville's defense set up a third-quarter scoring outburst that overwhelmed No. 10 Wake Forest.

The Cardinals forced eight turnovers, returning two for touchdowns, and registered eight sacks in a 48-21 victory over the Demon Deacons on Saturday.

The dominant defense gave coach Scott Satterfield his first win against a top 10 team.

Six of those turnovers and both scores came in the third quarter. Louisville turned a 14-13 halftime deficit into a 34-point lead by the time Quincy Riley returned an interception 90 yards for a score on the final play in the period.

"The third quarter was remarkable," Satterfield said. "I've never seen anything like it, and I've been in this game a long time."

Louisville's 35-point third quarter tied a record for the most points in a quarter against an AP Top 10-ranked team. According to Elias Sports Bureau, it had occurred three times previously, most recently by then-No. 5 Oklahoma against then-No. 2 Texas Tech on Nov. 22, 2008.

Louisville (5-3, 3-3 Atlantic Coast Conference) needed a rally after losing a 13-0 lead they held a minute into the second quarter. Kei'Trel Clark's 46-yard interception return for a touchdown gave Louisville a 20-14 lead 47 seconds into the second half.

Seven Louisville players accounted for the four interceptions and four fumble recoveries.

However, Louisville's win was built on more than the turnovers. The Cardinals' eight sacks came from eight players.

"It just goes to show how much work our defense puts in," quarterback Malik Cunningham said. "On both sides of the ball, we've struggled some this year, but the defense has been picking it up lately."

It's a far cry from the way Louisville's defense looked earlier in the season. The Cardinals gave up 100 points in its three losses, including 34 in a loss at Boston College on Oct. 1. After that loss made Louisville 2-3, Satterfield told reporters he would spend more time with the defense.

On Saturday, Satterfield said the Cardinals had to mix up their coverage patterns against veteran quarterback Sam Hartman.

"When that happens, you are going to throw into some coverage, or you are going to get strip-sacked because you don't know where it is coming from," Satterfield said. "It was a great defensive game plan, and our kids executed it."

Hartman completed 20 of 35 passes for 271 yards and a touchdown while throwing three picks for the Demon Deacons (6-2, 2-2).

Wake Forest entered Saturday having committed just five turnovers in its first seven games. According to ESPN, Wake Forest was the first team in at least 15 years to commit eight turnovers in a half.

Hartman also lost three fumbles and was sacked seven times as he was benched to start the fourth quarter. However, Wake Forest coach Dave Clawson said some mistakes were hard to put on his fifth-year quarterback and called the game a "disaster."

"Clearly, I did not have our football team ready today," Clawson said.

Louisville's Tiyon Evans ran for 106 yards on 11 carries, including a 52-yard touchdown, in his first action since the Boston College game on Oct. 1.

POLL IMPLICATIONS

This week, Wake Forest made the top 10 for the second consecutive year and for just the second time in its history. Unfortunately, the Demon Deacons' stay will be brief once again.

TOP 10 TRIUMPH

Louisville last beat a top 10 team on Sept. 17, 2016, when the Cardinals beat then-No. 2 Florida State 63-20 at home. The last time an unranked Cardinals team beat a top 10 foe was on Sept. 26, 2002, when they beat then-No. 4 FSU 26-20 in overtime.

BIG PICTURE

Wake Forest: After committing two turnovers last week in the win against Boston College, Clawson was worried about committing turnovers against a rejuvenated Louisville defense. There was no way he could even imagine his team committing more in one half than the seven they committed in the entire 2020 season.

Louisville: The once-inconsistent Cardinals won their third straight game. The schedule is still very tough the rest of the way, and the Cardinals still aren't bowl eligible. However, if Satterfield is on the Louisville sidelines next season, this game will be a major reason why.

UP NEXT

Wake Forest travels to North Carolina State for a night game next Saturday.

Louisville hosts James Madison next Saturday night.

Michigan State president calls melee 'unacceptable'

BY LARRY LAGE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Michigan State President Samuel Stanley publicly apologized Sunday for a "violent" skirmish in which Spartans football players appeared to attack Michigan players in a stadium tunnel after losing to the rival Wolverines.

"I'm extremely saddened by this incident and the unacceptable behavior depicted by members of our football program," Stanley said in a statement. adding that those involved would be held responsible by coach Mel Tucker. "On behalf of Michigan State University, my heartfelt apology to the University of Michigan and the student athletes who were injured.

"There is no provocation that could justify the behavior we are seeing on the videos. Rivalries can be intense but should never be violent."

The scuffle broke out in the Michigan Stadium tunnel after fourth-ranked Wolverines beat the Spartans 29-7 Saturday night. Social media posts showed at least three Michigan State players pushing, punching and kicking Michigan's Ja'Den McBurrows in and near a hallway that doesn't lead to either locker room.

McBurrows and defensive back Gemon Green went up the tunnel, walking alongside the Spartans, after the game while much of Michigan's team was waving them off the field after beating their in-state rivals for the first time in three years.

Michigan coach Jim Harbaugh said Saturday night that one of the players, who he did not identify, might have a broken nose. A social media post on Sunday showed a Wolverine, who appears to be Green, getting roughed up by Spartans.

Green, in another post, is surrounded by police while shouting across the tunnel at Michigan State players.

"Two of our players were assaulted," Harbaugh said. "I saw on the one video. 10 on one. It was pretty bad. It needs to be investigated."

Tucker said in a tweet Sunday that his program will cooperate with law enforcement and the Big Ten in any investigation.

"As Spartans, our program has a responsibility to uphold the highest level of sportsmanship. While emotions were very high at the conclusion of our rivalry game at Michigan Stadium, there is no excuse for behavior that puts our team or our opponents at risk," Tucker said. "In complete cooperation with law enforcement, the Big Ten Conference and MSU and UM leadership, we will evaluate the events in Ann Arbor and take swift and appropriate action."

University of Michigan Deputy Police Chief Melissa Overton said an investigation is underway in partnership with Michigan State police, and Michigan's athletic department and football program.

"The investigation takes some time," Overton said Sunday.

Stanley said the university will be cooperating with all related investigations by law enforcement and the Big Ten.

The Big Ten said in a statement: "The conference is currently gathering information, will thoroughly review the facts, and will take appropriate action."

As Tucker walked off the field and entered the tunnel at some point Saturday night, a fan appeared to touch his head and the coach responded by swiping the fan's hand away.

It was the second straight game at Michigan that included an altercation in the long, narrow tunnel that goes from the locker rooms to the field.

AP sources: Big 12 agrees to extension with ESPN and Fox

BY RALPH D. RUSSO
AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

The Big 12 has reached an agreement on a six-year contract extension with ESPN and Fox worth more than $2 billion that will keep the conference's media rights with those networks through the 2030-31 college sports seasons, according to people familiar with the deal.

Two people confirmed details of the new media rights deal to The Associated Press on Sunday, speaking on condition of anonymity because contracts have yet to be finalized and no official announcement was expected soon.

Sports Business Journal was the first to report the deal would be worth $380 million annually. The Big 12 still has two years left on its current deals with Fox and ESPN.

New Big 12 Commissioner Brett Yormark announced in August he was engaging the networks in discussions about an extension and just a few weeks ago said a new deal could be done soon.

The television deal provides stability to a league that a little more than a year ago seemed to be in danger of falling apart. Oklahoma and Texas announced in the summer of 2021 that they intended to leave the Big 12 for the Southeastern Conference at the end of the current TV deal, which expires in 2025.

Former Big 12 Commissioner Bob Bowlsby and the conference moved quickly to add Houston, Cincinnati, Central Florida and BYU. Those four will join next year, giving the Big 12 14 teams for at least one season.

It would cost tens of millions of dollars for Texas and Oklahoma to break current contracts leave the conference early.

Without the Longhorns and Sooners, there were concerns about how much networks would value the Big 12. The final two years of the current deal pays $220 million annually.
